Homework should be turned in at the beginning of class on the date due

Should your homework be considered on-time?

- Was your absence excused?

Choose one of the following situations

- If you missed a single day, was it turned in only a day late?
- If you missed two days, was it turned in within the allowed two extra days?
- Did you miss more than two days and discuss a make-up plan for an extended absence with your teacher?
- I have another reason why it was not possible. Examples: I went to the testing center to do my make-up test (but I turned it in the very next day at the start of class). You told me to hand it in after the test...

Other reason _____

- I forgot to make up my homework on time and I'm turning in an "alternate assignment". Late homework is not accepted because it's vital to keep up with the class and accepting late homework is not consistent with that goal. Up to two regular 5 point homework assignments per quarter can be excused (not counted toward homework average) by doing the following

Turn in an assignment consisting of an article pertaining to a topic we study in this class along with a 1 page handwritten summary/critique on the article. Turn in BOTH the summary and the article.
